GLASS STUDIO INTRODUCES NEW LOOK IN BATHROOM DESIGN

Australia's preeminent custom glass fabrication studio, VOODOO GLASS, along with founder/designer Lisa de Boer are thrilled to showcase a stunning new look in luxury bathroom and kitchen design. The soft aesthetic of low iron, acid etched matte glass panels combined with hand-painted custom finishes bring an original, contemporary aesthetic to all wet space areas.

Eliminating the need for tiles and grout the glass panels offer an easy-to-maintain, high-end look that can be tailored to any residential and commercial design. The matte, acid-etched surface resists staining, water-spots and fingerprints, while the custom hand-painted accents elevate any space to a work of art. For bathrooms, the custom sized glass panels are a striking surrounds for bathtubs, showers and vanities. In kitchens, they work beautifully as a dramatic backsplash with hand-painted motifs.

According to studio founder, Lisa de Boer "glass is an exciting, luxurious and resilient material for most surfaces - our crystal and matte hand-painted glass panels have a sophisticated yet organic feel that is very appealing. The panels instantly transform any wet space area into a glamorous retreat, we love giving our clients this bespoke option" she said.

For 20+ years, Voodoo Glass helmed by Lisa de Boer has been pushing creative boundaries and producing awe-inspiring glass installations on a grand scale. With Australia's largest glass kiln at 5.2 metres long, Voodoo Glass are able to craft seamless 2D glass-slumped panels that make a bold statement.

The new bathroom and kitchen glass panels are available from Voodoo Glass. (www.voodooglass.com.au) and www.lisadeboer.design
